02:00pm – 04:00pm	Workshop 1 (English)	VOICE MATTERS: STEREOTYPES AND CONSEQUENCES OF SOUNDING 'GAY' Fábio Fasoli, University of Surrey (United Kingdom) Summary People have expectations about how gay people sound. These expectations are based on so called 'gay voice' stereotypes. Such stereotypes are present in media representation of gay people, they are endorsed by all sorts of people, and they play a role in everyday interactions with gay people. But what does it mean to sound 'gay'? What are the consequences of sounding 'gay'? These are some of the questions that researchers have tried to answer. This workshop will offer an overview of the literature on this topic, include a conversation about the interdisciplinary nature of this phenomenon, and will involve a discussion around open research questions and ways to deconstruct 'gay voice' stereotypes. Aims <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • To provide an overview of the literature on 'gay voice' stereotypes and their consequences • To facilitate a discussion of open research questions and interventions • To encourage interdisciplinary collaborations 	Room 307
02:00pm – 04:00pm	Workshop 2 (Português / Español)	TEATRO PLAYBACK E ALTERIDADE: FERRAMENTAS AO SERVIÇO DA INTERVENÇÃO E DA COMPREENSÃO António Gonzalez, João Carlos Collado, & Rita Barros, Ispa – Instituto Universitário (Portugal) Sumário O teatro e as expressões dramáticas sempre foram lugar de reflexão do indivíduo e das suas relações com o coletivo. A história individual contém sempre uma componente arquetípica, e sempre que alguém conta uma história, ela é também a história de todas e todos. Neste workshop serão exploradas ferramentas do Teatro Playback, uma forma de teatro que parte das narrativas pessoais e as devolve, de forma improvisada, resignificando-as. Através da exploração da escuta empática, da expressão artística e da ressonância, iremos desenvolver competências pessoais e profissionais para trabalhar com minorias. Pré-requisitos: não é preciso ter experiência prévia em teatro. Sugere-se que tragam roupa confortável.	Ginásio Ispa
04:00pm – 06:00pm	Workshop 3 (English)	'SHOW ME' AND 'TELL ME WHAT HAPPENS NEXT': CHILDREN RAISED IN NON-TRADITIONAL FAMILIES' ATTACHMENT REPRESENTATIONS Fernando Salinas-Quiroz, Eliot-Pearson Department of Child Study and Human Development, Tufts University (United States) Summary A core aspect of attachment theory is concerned with the role of caregivers as a secure base from which infants can organize their behavior, derive security, explore, and learn about the environment. It has been suggested that the notions of event schemas and scripts could be used to conceptualize the study and development of mental representations of attachment -i.e., internal working models-. Moreover, that an individual's history of secure-base support is represented in the memory as a Secure-Base Script (SBS). Since there is some evidence that children raised in traditional families organize information obtained from participating in attachment relationships as a SBS, and research teams interested in non-traditional families have either interviewed children, assessed children's perception of security, or evaluated parent-child' interactions through observations, the Attachment Story Completion Task (ASCT; Bretherton, Ridgeway, & Cassidy, 1990) offers a glimpse into caregiver-child communication and co-construction processes about significant attachment related themes. This workshop introduces attachment theory, non-traditional families and attachment, as well as the ASCT and its coding system.	Room 309
04:00pm – 06:00pm	Workshop 4 (Português)	CONJUGALIDADES GAYS E LÉSBICAS: REFLEXÕES A PARTIR DA PRÁTICA DE TERAPIA DE CASAL Pedro Frazão, Private Practice (Portugal) Sumário Neste workshop faremos uma reflexão sócio-histórica sobre as conjugalidades gays e lésbicas, partindo de diversos campos conceptuais das Ciências Sociais e Humanas. Posteriormente, apresentaremos um conjunto de dados provenientes da literatura científica sobre as vivências conjugais de gays e lésbicas, tentando simultaneamente dar a conhecer alguns estudos empíricos realizados em Portugal sobre este tema. Finalmente, abordaremos alguns aspectos vividos por casais de gays e lésbicas que procuram apoio psicoterapêutico em contexto de terapia de casal.	Room 310

10:00am – 11:00am	Keynote Address CULTURALLY DIVERSE LGBTQI+ PERSONS: CONTRIBUTING TO CULTURAL RESPONSIVENESS IN WORKING WITH ETHNIC MINORITY PEOPLE, MIGRANTS, REFUGEES, AND ASYLUM SEEKERS OF DIVERSE SOGIESC Carla Moleiro, Ph.D. Associate Professor of Social and Organizational Psychology, ISCTE-IUL (Portugal) The role of culture has increasingly been recognized as key in understanding the experiences of people, groups, and communities. The experiences of LGBTQI+ people are no exception. In this presentation we will explore specific issues, health and protection needs of LGBTQI+ ethnic minority individuals, migrants, refugees and asylum seekers. Migratory and cultural diversity will be examined in relation to the psychological well-being of LGBTQI+ people, including the double jeopardy associated to the identification with at least two minority statuses, the role of multiple acculturation processes, and the increased risk of being the target of institutionalized and interpersonal violence and exploitation in their migration routes. The implications for cultural competence training of psychologists and other relevant stakeholders will be discussed, as well as for needed research and public policies and practices.	Auditório Armando de Castro

09:30am – 10:30am	Keynote Address	SOCIAL CHANGE, STIGMA, AND THE WELL-BEING OF SEXUAL AND GENDER MINORITY INDIVIDUALS David Frost, Ph.D. Associate Professor of Social Psychology, University College London (United Kingdom) Over the past few decades, there have been several significant improvements in the social context surrounding the lives of sexual and gender minority (i.e. LGBTQ+) individuals. Despite these important changes, sexual and gender minority populations continue to experience physical and mental health problems at higher rates than their heterosexual and cisgender peers. Predominant theoretical frameworks in psychology and related disciplines assert that these health inequalities are caused by exposure to social stress stemming from stigma, prejudice, and discrimination perpetrated against sexual and gender minority individuals. However, if this 'minority stress' is indeed declining as society becomes more accepting of sexual and gender minorities, why do health inequalities persist? I will review evidence from recent research targeted at addressing this broad question and discuss implications for the future of research on minority stress in psychology and related disciplines.	Auditório Armando de Castro

05:45 – 07:15	Social Event	Clube Safo "20 anos das Primeiras Jornadas Lésbicas em Portugal: A especificidade dos espaços lésbicos como potencializadores de bem estar" Há 20 anos, o Clube Safo dinamizava no ISPA as primeiras Jornadas Lésbicas em Portugal. Naqueles dois dias, centenas de pessoas juntaram-se para conversar sobre temas como a visibilidade e a maternidade lésbica num espaço único, acolhedor e seguro. As Jornadas vividas naquele evento não voltaram a acontecer no espaço dos últimos 20 anos. Hoje, com mais de 25 anos de existência, e uma nova direção desde 2019, o retorno as atividades desta associação tem evidenciado a luta contínua pela dinamização de espaços específicos, de encontro, partilha, reflexão e acção para o aumento do bem-estar psicológico para as pessoas lésbicas e/ou sáficas. É no sentido de promovermos um espaço de visibilidade mas, também, de celebração que nos propomos a desenvolver um workshop para a discussão/partilha sobre os temas das primeiras jornadas lésbicas, as experiências dos últimos dois anos e com o mote para o que já foi feito e o que falta fazer. "20 years of the First Lesbian Conference in Portugal: The specificity of lesbian spaces as enhancers of well-being" 20 years ago, Clube Safo held at ISPA the first Lesbian Conference in Portugal. In those two days, hundreds of people gathered to talk about issues such as lesbian visibility and motherhood in a unique, welcoming and safe space. What was experienced at these Jornadas has not happened again in the space of the last 20 years. Today, and with a new board since 2019, returning with the activities of this association (specially during COVID-19) has evidenced the continuous need and struggle to maintain and continue specific spaces, of meeting, sharing, reflection and action for the increase of the psychological and social well-being for lesbian and/or sapphic people. It is in the sense of promoting a space of visibility but also of celebration that we propose to develop a workshop for discussion/sharing on the themes of the first lesbian days, the experiences of the last two years and with the motto for what has already been done and what remains to be done. (Portuguese, Spanish & English available)	Room 310

Patterson, Ph.D. Professor of Psychology and Chair, Department of Women, Gender & Sexuality University of Virginia (United States) The pervasive doctrine of heterosexism seeks to exclude queer people from what many consider to be life's most important experiences: those of forming intimate relationships and family lives. As queer people around the world increasingly refuse to submit to the dictates of this doctrine, we are entering into same sex marriages and other intimate relationships, having children, and creating new kinds of family lives. What has social science research learned thus far about these undertakings? In this talk, I offer a brief overview of some important new findings about same-sex partnerships and about parenting, and ask how queer experiences can inform and inspire us all about the future of family lives in our time.	Auditório Armando de Castro
